

N° 68 Tour du Lac d'Arlet

BORCE

WALKING

Good things come to those who wait and Arlet Lake is one of them! The landscape is revealed and Larrecq waterfall sets the tone: a carpet of lush green where flocks graze in peace. The way back through the untamed Bélonce Valley gives you a last look at the Col de Lagréou.

À ne pas manquer

- Ground cable. Relics of wood cultivation.
- Cascade de Larrecq. It appears all of a sudden!
- Pic d'Aillary. Pic d'Aillary (2215m) and Pic Rouge on the right (2177m)
- Anie. Pic d'Anie (2504m) and Billare (2312m) at the back

Étapes

- Step 1. Cabane Pacheu. From the parking of Aubise, go down the tarmac road from the car park. At the corner of the Lamourane house, follow the carriageway until the water inlet. Take the path to the right of the construction and go back up Aubise Valley. Walk on this rolling trail, the entrance to the woods marks the start of the National Park. When you come out of the forest, carry on until you see the Cabane Pacheu above.
- Step 2. Beneath the Pic du Baralet. Continue after the cabin and cross the bridge. Stay on the bottom path at the fork. The slope gets steeper in the clearing and the pebbly path begins to wind. Go through the woods and cross the large slope under the Souperet.
- Step 3. Cabane de Gourgue Sec. Pass the stream and continue to the bottom of the cirque. Go over the thalweg and cross the stream (Baralet) then the grassy plateau forking right. The path goes past a rocky spur and continues to the Cabane de Gourgue Sec.
- Step 4. Arlet Lake. Continue past the cabin and take the horizontal trail (HRP). Turn right on this beautiful path and cross the Banasse Mountains. As you approach the ridge, go around the mound to the right. Pass a mountain pass and walk to the left towards the lake.
- Step 5. Benches. Going down from the refuge, stay on the left bank and take the path that enters the grassy slope. After a few bends in a rocky area, cross the road below the Pic d'Aillary.
- Step 6. Cabane d'Hortassy. On a ledge, leave the path that leads to Cabane de Lapassa and descend between the rocks on a grassy carpet. Find a path below and follow it to the right. Descend abruptly, following a curve, and then cross to the right of the circus to a shepherd's cabin.
- Step 7. Gave de Belonce. Pass the cabin and enter the forest. Go down the steep curves and out onto a rock-strewn plateau. Fork right toward the edge and find a path. Follow the right bank of the Gave de Belonce. After a passage through the brush, continue between the edge and the Gave. Reach a plain.
- Step 8. Descent to Aubise. descend on a beautiful dirt road that goes through the fern forest. BEWARE : when you approach a forest, be sure to take the path that goes up to the right towards Col de l'Agreou and to reach the exit parking.
